SpiderRandom ScreenMate is a small software application designed specifically for helping you animate the looks of your desktop with the aid of a spider that pops up at random locations on your screen. Portable running mode You can take advantage of the tool's portability status and drop it on pen drives or other similar devices so you can carry it with you all the time. Plus, you may run it without being an administrator on the target computer. The utility can be opened straight from the storage device. Since it does not write entries to your Windows registry and create additional configuration items, you may get rid of it by deleting the files that you have downloaded from the Internet. It's easy to gain access to its interface because you only need to double-click on the executable file. Animated design and a few tweaking parameters You are given the freedom to run multiple instances of the program on the same computer. This way, you can have multiple spiders showing up at random locations on your screen. In order to gain access to SpiderRandom ScreenMate's configuration settings, you need to right-click on the spider. You are offered the possibility to run the application at Windows startup, close the tool, as well as hide the animated spider in the system tray and bring it back on the screen with a single click. Tests have pointed out that the utility carries out a task quickly and without errors. It does not eat up a lot of CPU and memory resources so the overall performance of the computer is not affected. Final remarks To sum things up, SpiderRandom ScreenMate proves to be a simplistic desktop enhancement program that has only a few options to offer. It may come in handy for children. On the downside, there's no support for advanced features so you cannot alter the looks of the spider with the aid of different skins, set a specific number of animated objects to populate your screen, and adjust the transparency of the screen mate, just to name a few suggestions.
