.Q: Combobox with string as option and event of the option How do I change the text of a combobox that I loaded with a string as selection? So I have the string like options1, options2, options3... I want that the user has to select one of the options. If he selects options1, I want the combobox to display "options1 selected", etc. And if he changes the selection, I want an event (onchange, onselect, or whatever). Something like `ComboBox1.Select(ComboBox1.Text)`; Edit. I tried the Code Project article at the given link. It worked at first, but now it does not. I have attached the image for illustration. A: You can try this:

private void button1_Click(object sender, EventArgs e) { int idx = listBox1.IndexOf(string.Format("{0} selected", listBox1.Text)); if (idx >= 0) { listBox1.SelectedIndex = idx; listBox1.Items.Insert(0, "First Option"); listBox1.Items.Add(string.Format("{0} - Please select", listBox1.Text)); listBox1.Items.Insert(0, string.Empty); } }

 Q: How to separate three identical 6-digit numbers in a string and convert it to integers I need a method to take a given string and return three integers, where each number is separated by a space and each number is of 6 digits. The string passed must not have any white spaces or commas. For example, I need the method to extract the following from the string "472493407": The first number, the 4th and the 7th. The second number, the 2nd, the 4th and the 7th. The third number, the 3rd,
